Miss Mary Gwendolyn Burton, research associate in the department of plant pathology at the University of Georgia, and Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of the university, were married at 12:30 p. m. yesterday in Glenn Memorial chapel at Emory University.

Dr. Nat Long, pastor of Peachtree Road Methodist church and a classmate of Dr. Caldwell, performed the single ring ceremony in the presence of the bride's parents, Mrs. Fannie Howell Burton and D. W. Burton, of Monetta, S. C., and Mrs. Lillie Caldwell, mother of the groom.

Mrs. Paul E. Bryan, of Emory University, played traditional wedding music.

The lovely brunette bride wore a two-piece suit of blue wool, with black accessories. Her veiled black hat was trimmed in matching blue. She wore a purple-throated bronze orchid.

Mrs. Caldwell has been a staff member of the university since 1940. She attended elementary and high schools in Ridge Spring, S. C., received the B. A. degree from Lander College, Greenwood, S. C., in 1938, and the degree of M. A. from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, in 1940.

At the University of Georgia she has held the Highlands Scholarship, and has served as graduate assistant and research associate in plant pathology. She is the author of a number of research studies. She is a member of the North Carolina Academy of Science, the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society, the Georgia Academy of Science and the Botanical Society of America.

Dr. Caldwell was educated in the Meriwether county and Atlanta schools, and graduated from the university in 1919. After graduating from the Harvard Law School, he practiced law in Atlanta and served as a member of the faculty of the Emory University Law School. Emory and Mercer universities conferred upon him the honorary degrees of doctor of laws.

In 1929, Dr. Caldwell became professor of law at the university, and in 1933 was named dean of the school. In 1935 he became president of the university.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Delta Phi, Chi Phi, the American Bar Association, the Georgia Bar Association and the Lawyers' Club of Atlanta.

Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell will return to Athens today.
